Spring is Just Around the Corner

By Pamela Rabas, ND

Spring is the ideal time to get the chemicals out of your home.

We all do some spring cleaning in our homes when spring rolls around. Unfortunately, many common household cleaning products contain toxic chemicals that damage our health and pollute the environment. Since World War II we have developed over 80,000 chemicals that are used in cleaners, pesticides, cosmetics and other regularly used household products. Even though you are not ingesting these products, you are absorbing small amounts through inhalation and contact with your skin, so you want to use products that are as safe as possible. Health problems associated with common household chemicals include neurotoxic effects like depression, lack of mental concentration, headaches, and mental confusion. Respiratory irritation is common which can cause coughing, asthma, allergies, and sneezing; and there can be liver and kidney toxicity. Some products may have corrosive actions that can burn the skin and eyes or they may contain endocrine disruptors which contribute to infertility, PMS, reproductive cancers and other glandular issues. Carcinogenic compounds have also been associated with the chemicals in some of the products that contribute to the development of cancer.

The problem doesn't stop there either. The chemicals we use in our homes are major contributors to environmental pollution. It is estimated that the average American uses 40 pounds of unsafe household cleaners each year. Multiply that 40 times 308 million Americans and that's 12.3 billion pounds of toxic chemicals we are dumping into the environment annually, just from household cleaning supplies!

Avoiding these chemicals is an important part of protecting the health of you, your family and your pets. Check your cleaning products for toxic chemicals like chlorine, formaldehyde, phosphates, benzene, xenoestrogens, petrochemicals and chemical fragrances. Replace these toxic products with natural, biodegradable nontoxic products. You may see these products in most grocery stores as more are carrying safe, natural products as consumers become more aware of chemicals and how they affect their health and the health of their family and pets. Mishicot Earns Best Overnight Rest Stop Mishicot won the "Best Overnight Rest Stop" for the second straight year in July 2011. Volunteers from the school and community welcomed the SAGBRAW bicyclists to our village. The bikers in Schramm's Annual Great Bike Ride Across Wisconsin appreciated their stay here so much that the village was awarded with a certificate and bike rack. The tour group will stop in Mishicot again this year, but not overnight....they will stop here on their way to the next overnight rest stop on July 29.

Police Department News

From Chief Ryan Gilbert

Just a reminder to obtain your dog license for 2012. Also be mindful when letting your dog outside. I have had many complaints of dogs chasing or bothering people and several dog bites on the sidewalks. Your dog is not under your control if not on a leash. When walking dogs, make sure you pick up after them. Ordinance 10.08(12) prohibits walking a dog on public or private property not owned by you without having an appropriate device to collect excrement. Those, along with barking dogs, are complaints that have been on the rise. Remember if you're at work and you let your dogs out in the yard to have a bark collar to prevent excessive barking.

Also remember to obtain a burning permit when burning branches; leaves, garbage and any other rubbish are not allowed. Be mindful of smoke direction to avoid bothering your neighbors. If you have any questions on ordinances contact the Village Hall or Police Department. Be sure to visit the Mishicot PD Facebook page as I put information on there also.

In 2011 we were handled 100 more incidents than 2010. Listed are some of the incidents:

23 Underage Alcohol Offenses	6 Crashes	7 No Seatbelt child under 4yrs old
23 Burning Permits	4 Runaway Juvenile Reports	23 Adult Seatbelt violations
25 911 calls	6 Public Nuisance Complaints	427 Speed Warnings Issued
22 Truancy violations	3 Hit and Run offenses	296 Speed Citations Issued
13 No valid Driver's license issued	3 Obstructing an officer	228 Citations for other traffic offenses
24 Operate with suspended license	5 Disorderly conducts	233 Warnings for other traffic offenses
42 Animal Complaints	3 Burglary complaints	2 Littering complaints
6 Minor Transporting intoxicants	2 Burn w/out permit	20 Operate While Impaired (alcohol or drug) arrests
1 Juvenile Warrant	3 Sexual Assaults	1 Battery offense
13 Adult Warrant arrests	1 Child Abuse	2 Worthless Check

Recollection of the 1959 Mishicot Flood and Fire_____

by Dave Brouchoud

In the morning of December 28, 1959, I decided to take some movies of the Mishicot flood which was in progress. I drove my car to the south end of the bridge, parked, and started filming. My camera was an 8mm and I was using colored film. I panned the camera starting from the SW toward the NE. Water was up against the bottom of the bridge and was over Main Street from Washington near Jackson. Not wanting to risk driving through the water, I drove back south to Church Street and turned north onto State. I filmed more scenes of the high water to include men running pumps to remove water from Holtz's basement under the store.

I heard a siren and realized I might be able to follow the fire trucks and shoot some movies. I realized the fire was in Mishicot and discovered it at Eva Holtz's house. (Eva and George Schmidt were living there at the time.) No flames at first, but plenty of black smoke. As the fire trucks approached, I filmed it all. Soon flames broke out in the rear of the home. I ran out of film and was so excited that when I opened my camera to replace the film with a fresh roll, I dropped it and saw it roll through the muddy water. I grabbed the film and tucked it into my pocket and reloaded the camera with a new roll of 8mm film.

More fire departments were called in as the fire could not be contained. Flames were shooting out the basement windows as though fueled by a flame thrower. We learned later why this was. Boots Dvorak was one of the volunteer fire fighters that day. These are his words:

There was a tank in the ground next to the house with a pipe that ran through the basement wall. The pipe was cut off there. When the flood went over the tank, it forced the gas into the house. When George plugged in the sump pump, the house went "boom." The gas in the tank was like jet fuel. They used this fuel for lights years ago.

George Schmidt lost his life in the explosion.

I continued to take movies as the fire became larger and difficult to control. Eventually, I ran out of film again. This time, I did not have the heart to take more movies. The DVD ends with firemen fighting the fire.

Mr. Brouchoud donated a DVD with his 8mm film footage converted to digital computer format. To reserve a copy for viewing, please sign out the DVD at the village hall during regular business hours. One to two week check-out time is appreciated.
