Potawatomi Bus Trip

Mishicot Museum Sponsors 6th Hannahville Bus Trip (Contributed by Jim Sustman)

This Mishicot Historical Museum and Research Center will again sponsor a one-day bus trip to the 39th annual Potawatomie Pow-Wow, in Hannahville Michigan, the “Land of Chief Mishicot”. This event, the sixth such trip sponsored by the museum, is scheduled for Saturday June 21, 2015. This popular trip began ten years ago, after the history and final resting place of Chief Mishicot was discovered by historical researcher, Jim Sustman. This discovery led to a connection and continuing relationship between the Village of Mishicot and Earl Meshiguad, the Cultural and Historical Director of the Hannahville Potawatomie tribe, who happens to be the great grandson of Chief Mishicot.

On the day of the Pow-Wow event, Mr. Meshiguad will offer the visitors from Mishicot a tour of the Potawatomie Historical Center and a visit to Chief Mishicot’s grave.

Ten years ago, on March 5, 2005 the Hannahville Tribe documented their approval of the Indian logo used by the Village and School District of Mishicot. The tribe indicated they consider the logo to be an honor to their ancestor, Abraham Mishicot, the namesake and friend of the Village of Mishicot.

If you are interested in going on this trip, please contact Jim Sustman at 755-3317

Historic Mishicot Homes

Historic Mishicot Homes 3rd installment (Contributed by Jim Sustman)

The A. Holst Home, 511 E. Main Street (now the site of the Mishicot Village Hall).

This elegant, two and a half story Victorian style home, consisting of twelve rooms, belonged to Claus and Augusta Holst and was built around the turn of the century. Claus (1853-1924) and his wife Augusta, came to Mishicot from Potter, Wisconsin in 1880. Their home was built on Main Street, just across from the Holst General Store, which they opened in 1889. In time, their two sons, Arthur A and Hugo F. joined in the family business, which became known as A. Holst and Sons. The Holst Home, a landmark in the village, was the first to use electricity with the electric power coming from the village dam.

After the death of Claus and Augusta Holst, their son, Arthur, and his wife, Eva, lived together in the house until 1940, when Arthur died, after which Eva remained in the home.

Eva eventually married her second husband, George Schmidt, who was a former partner in Stelzer and Schmidt Hardware Co. in Mishicot. Eva and George lived in the house until December of 1959, when a fire destroyed the home and caused George's death. After the fire, the ruined house was torn down and a doctor's clinic was built on the site, which later became the Village Hall.

The Mishicot Historical Museum has a video of this fire, which is available for viewing. This is the 3rd installment in a series on Mishicot Homes written by Jim Sustman. Viewers are invited to visit our Historical Museum and Research Center for more information on the history of Mishicot and surrounding areas.
